SENATOR CALVIN S. BRICE'S WEALTH.

Senator Calvin S. Brice is estimated to be worth over $6,000,000.

Ten years ago as a railroad lawyer at Lima, Ohio, all he had was his home and that incumbered. All of this immense fortune has been accumulated in this short period in successful railroad deals.

His success has been phenomenal and while it shows the possibilities of this country nevertheless it is largely but the caprice of fortune. It is the grand prize in the lottery of chance which every now and then one man of a million draws. For the other 999,999 common sense teaches us it is folly to hope for such luck. The chances are all against us. There is a certain way for every man, woman or child to accumulate a competence. It is the rule that we see followed by those all around us, who are steadily getting ahead financially. The certain rule of wealth is very simple, it is to save.

It is not how much or how little we earn that makes any one rich, it is what is put by. Every one has this chance. The boy or girl who forms habits of industry and learns to save is sure to succeed. The man or woman who determines to put by a part of their earnings and who does it, is certain to become independent. The great trouble is we say, next week I will begin; next month I will have some surplus; next year I will have better pay and can put by something of consequence. Next week and next month and next year always bring needs as pressing as those of to-day. The sure rule is, begin now. Put by a part of your earnings and whether the start is in dimes or dollars, nevertheless make a start. You can put it by by putting it where it will bring you in something, or invest it in necessities where and when they are sold cheap. Thousands and millions of dollars are saved every year by persons taking advantage of buying where they can get good necessities of life cheap. We know of no better place where this can be done than at the Drug, Book and Wall Paper House of Saur & Balsley. Just at this season this house is offering some paying and special bargains in wall paper and decorations, consisting of some of the prettiest designs ever shown in the Northwest. Also, as this is the sickly season, this popular house is offering to humanity a variety of pure medicines that cannot help to keep one in good health and cure you if you are ailing. Much money can be saved by investing a small amount in good pure remedies and preventatives of disease. Their paints and oils are standard goods and are sold guaranteed to be the best, and it is money saved to get the best, especially when the article is sold at the small margin which reigns at the house of Saur & Balsley, Napoleon, O.

BY HIS CIGAR.

Telling a Man's Character by the Way He Holds the Weed.

An observer who has devoted a great deal of time in watching those who smoke cigars, gives the world the following result of his observations:

An even tempered, quiet man never goes to an extreme in choosing his cigar. A nervous man wants something strong and furious; a mild man something that smokes and nothing more. There is a great deal in the way men handle their cigars.

A man smokes his cigar only enough to keep it lighted, and relishes taking it from his mouth to cast a look at the blue curl of smoke in the air, set him down as an easy going man. He has been perceptions and delicate sensibilities. He will not create a trouble, but is apt to see it out when it is once begun. Beware of the man who never releases the grip of the cigar and is indifferent whether it burns or not. He is cool, calculating and exacting. He is seldom energetic physically, but lives easily off those who perform the labor.

The man that smokes a bit, rests a bit and fumbles the cigar more or less is easily affected by circumstances. If the cigar goes out frequently the man has a whole souled disposition, is an easy going fellow with a lively brain and a glib tongue, and generally a fine fund of anecdotes. To hold half the cigar and smoke indifferently is a lazy man's habit. They are generally of little force, and their character are not of the highest strata. A nervous man who fumbles his cigar a great deal, is a sort of popinjay among men.

Holding the cigar constantly between the teeth, chewing it occasionally, and not caring if it is lighted at all, are characteristics of men who have the tenacity of bull dogs. They never forget anything or let go their holds. The top stands his cigar on end, and an experienced smoker points it straight ahead or almost at right angles with his course. Such has been my observation with regard to smokers.

Tom—I say, Jack, how many eggs does a hen lay? Jack (suspiciously)—Is it a joke? Tom—No, really, I merely ask for information. Since taking charge of that agricultural paper such questions naturally arise, you know.—Yankee Blade.

FARM AND GARDEN.

REPORTS FROM STATE AGRICULTURAL EXPERIMENT STATION.

Results of Experiments in the Culture of Onions.—The Effect of Transplanting.—Pointers for the Market Gardener.

The practice of transplanting onions when young, is not common with gardeners, but it has many advantages which seem to have been overlooked. Seed under forty different names, including about thirty varieties, was sown in the green house February 25, 1890. The seed came up promptly, and the young plants advanced rapidly in growth, being six to eight inches in height by the middle of April. As soon as practicable two beds, or plates of ground, were prepared, side by side, in one of which the young onion plants grown in the green house were transplanted.

In the other bed seed of the same varieties was sown, in the ordinary manner. In all respects, except that of transplanting, the onions in the two beds were treated exactly alike. The two beds were manured and cultivated alike, and twice during the season, when the weather was dry, both were irrigated. At the proper time the onions in the bed where the seed was sown were thinned, so as to stand the same distance as those that had been transplanted, which was three inches apart in the row, the rows being one foot asunder.

The difference in the two beds was very marked from the start. Those that were transplanted began to grow at once, none so far as observed, dying in the operation. Not only were the transplanted onions much larger at all times during the season but had a healthier appearance, besides being more uniform in size. A conservative estimate at any time during the season would have placed the yield of the transplanted onions at more than double that of the other bed.

The difference in cost of cultivation was considerable, being about 1 to 2 in favor of the bed of transplanted onions. At the first weeding both beds were weedy, but while the weeds were as large as the onions in the bed where the seed was sown, making weeding difficult and slow, the task was comparatively easy in the other bed. At the second weeding it was necessary to remove many of the small onions in the bed where the seed was sown, an operation which is equivalent to an extra weeding. The work of weeding was one-half on the bed of transplanted onions what it was on the other bed. Counting the extra trouble of growing in the greenhouse and transplanting the work on the two beds was about the same for the whole season; that is, transplanting adds nothing to the cost of growing the crop, aside from the necessity of a greenhouse, hot-bed or cold frame, in any of which the plants can be started.

The difference in the time of ripening was about one month, in favor of the transplanted onions, making it possible to use them for bunching, also to market the crop at an earlier date, than could be done with those sown in the open ground. The yield of the transplanted onions was about double that of the other, in most cases, as the following table of some of the leading varieties will show:

Name of Variety. Transplanted. Not Transplanted.

Giant Rocca..... 1,106 bu. 596 bu.

Manhattan..... 1,428 bu. 696 bu.

Spanish Kidney..... 1,219 bu. 751 bu.

White Victoria..... 1,179 bu. 592 bu.

Yellow Danvers..... 594 bu. 398 bu.

Red Wethershead..... 779 bu. 606 bu.

In the above table the yield per acre is estimated from small plots, and the actual yield of an acre might fall below those given, and yet it is believed that even better results could be obtained by attending carefully to all details of management. It will be seen that the best results and greatest difference in yield were obtained with the foreign varieties. There was a gain with both Yellow Danvers and Red Wethershead, but less marked than with the other varieties. The greater size and uniformity of the transplanted onions made the product more marketable in all cases. The advantages of transplanting onions may be enumerated as follows:

First—The greater probability of securing a good stand of plants.

Second—The saving of labor at the most critical period.

Third—Advance in time of maturity.

Fourth—Increase of the crop.

Fifth—Improvement in appearance of crop, enhance the market value.

Sixth—The ground is occupied for a shorter period, making it possible to use the land for some other crop, the same season.

This plan may not be feasible for those who grow onions on a large scale, but it can be followed to advantage by gardeners who do a general market garden business, and who have the necessary hot-beds or green houses. It should be remembered that the foreign varieties with which the above results were obtained are not so good-keepers as the varieties commonly grown.

DEMOCRATS WIDE AWAKE.

A Great Victory In Arkansas

AND GREAT GAINS IN VERMONT.

Many Republicans Staying at Home This Year.

There is striking political news this week from the North and the South—from Vermont and Arkansas. In the Northern commonwealth we see the Democrats polling a larger vote even than in the Presidential year, while the Republicanism the other hand show an unprecedented falling off in their attendance at the polls. The meaning of this cannot be misunderstood. The Democrats are more wide-awake and active than ever before. The Republicans are dispirited or apathetic in their attitude toward the Administration which they succeeded in placing in office two years ago. In Arkansas the Democratic party has achieved a sweeping victory and largely increased its majority after a spirited political campaign. We believe that similar results will follow all over the country in November, and that the Republican minority in the 52d Congress will be about the size of that which it had in the 44th.

THE ARKANSAS ELECTION.

GOVERNOR EAGLE SAYS ARKANSAS IS NOT READY FOR LODGE OR McKINLEY.

[Special Dispatch to National Democrat.]

LITTLE ROCK, ARK., Sept. 3, 1890.

The election Monday was one of the most quiet we ever had. Returns from 328 townships show a Democratic gain over 1888 of 7,082. Should this indicated gain be maintained throughout, our majority will exceed 30,000. This indicates that when we are threatened by danger from without, we can lay aside our personal differences, close up our ranks and present a solid column to a common foe. It means that Arkansas is not ready for the Lodge election bill nor for the McKinley tariff measure.

JAMES P. EAGLE.

SUBSTANTIAL DEMOCRATIC GAINS.

Arkansas had an election for State officers September 1. The Democrats were opposed by a combination of the Republican and Union Labor parties.

Returns from two-thirds of the counties received Tuesday night by the Little Rock Gazette maintain the large increase in the Democratic majorities over last year indicated Monday night. The increase is especially large in the white counties, while opposition majorities in the negro counties, except Jefferson show a decrease. The majority for Governor Eagle and the Democratic State ticket will not fall below 30,000, and a still larger figure is claimed, owing to the almost uniform heavy gains. The Legislature will be overwhelmingly Democratic, thus insuring the re-election of James K. Jones, as United States Senator, he having no Democratic opposition. No reports of disturbance at polls from anywhere in the State.

THE VERMONT ELECTION.

REMARKABLE DEMOCRATIC GAINS AND REPUBLICAN LOSSES.

MONTPELIER, VT., Sept. 3, 1890.

Returns from about half the State of the election yesterday show decidedly hopeful results for the Democrats. The Republican vote fell off more than 50 per cent. from 1888. The Democrats gained about 5 per cent. The Democrats have the largest representation in legislature for 20 years. Reports are very encouraging for the Democracy and the Republicans are correspondingly depressed. The Republican minority will not be very far from 12,000 for governor, against 28,000 for Dillingham in 1888.

H. ATKINS.

BELLINGHAM, VT., Sept. 3—Probably one Democratic Senator is elected from this county. There will be large Democratic gains in the House. Thirty-seven Democratic assemblymen are so far known to have been elected. There were only 18 Democrats in the last assembly. Two Farmer's League candidates and an unexpected large number of high license Republican assemblymen are elected.

WHITE RIVER JUNCTION, VT., Sept. 3—The congressional vote in 58 towns in the First District gave Powers (Rep.) 9,629; Moloney (Dem.) 5,448; majority for Powers, 4,081. In the Second District 59 towns gave Grout (Rep.) 9,587; Shurtleff (Dem.) 4,801; a majority for Grout of 5,478. Grout's total vote in 1888 was 24,219 against 9,605 for the Democratic candidate and 400 scattering. In 1890, an off year, his vote was 18,885 and his opponent's 8,176. Powers' district is usually almost 3 to 1 Republican.

Soils That Require Underdrainage.

The following are lands that may be considered to require thorough drainage by covered ditches containing a waterway: Any soil so retentive that water will stand in a hole for forty eight hours after a heavy rain. Any soil where clover or wheat is liable to be killed in winter. Any soil having a retentive subsoil within two feet of the surface. Any soil where tufts of wild grass, or semi-aquatic plants make their appearance from time to time. Flat lands near the dwelling house, or those for gardens or orchards. Slopes of hills where water comes to the surface, along impervious strata cropping out, or which at certain seasons contain seeps, as they are termed and, in certain cases, where special crops are to be cultivated. Any soil that cannot be plowed within thirty hours after a heavy rainfall.—JONATHAN PERVIAN in Indianapolis Drainage Journal.

Howqua, said to have been the richest man in China, is dead. His wealth was estimated at $30,000,000.

INDIANA DEMOCRATS.

Their Campaigns Opened by General Black on the Anniversary of Hendricks' Birth.

Special Dispatch to the Enquirer.

INDIANAPOLIS, September 8.—The Democratic campaign had a brilliant opening to-night, the occasion marking the birthday anniversary of the late Vice-President Hendricks, and the whole being under the management of the Hendricks Club.

The immense auditorium of the City Hall was elaborately decorated with flags, and a bust of Hendricks near the speaker's stand was covered with floral offerings and wreaths, while overhead swung a gorgeously illuminated banner, with its 400 blue, red and white lights so placed as to form the letters giving the full name of the club.

It was expected that Governor Campbell, of Ohio, would be the chief orator, and elaborate preparations were made both for the reception of himself and general Black, of Illinois, but to-day a letter was received confirming reports of his serious illness, by which he was still detained in New York.

General Black arrived during the afternoon, and to-night the Hendricks and Gray Clubs, headed by bands, joined in escorting him to the hall, where he met with a welcome highly complimentary to himself, as well as redounding to the credit of the Indiana Democracy.

Hon. J. B. McCullough, who heads the Legislative ticket, was Chairman. The hall was filled, many ladies occupying seats upon the stage. Both Mr. McCullough and General Black paid glowing tributes to the memory of the distinguished, but the speech of the latter was largely devoted to a comparison of conditions between agricultural and manufacturing States, in which he showed that the former were constantly growing poorer, while the latter were adding to their wealth.

The Best Advertising.

The most efficient advertising in behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla is that which comes from the medicine itself. That is, those who are cured by it, speak to friends suffering similarly, who in turn derive benefit and urge others to try this successful medicine. Thus the circle of its popularity is rapidly widening from this source alone, and more and more are becoming enthusiastic in behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla as it actually demonstrates its absolute merit. All that is asked for Hood's Sarsaparilla is that it be given a fair trial. If you need a good blood purifier, or building up medicine, try Hood's Sarsaparilla.
